Your Lifestyle's Financial Expert

An innocent, brilliant mind

Have you heard of Rahul Doshi, star of the Channel 4 TV show 'Child Genius'?

With an IQ of 162 you would think that this 12-year-old prodigy would be considering changing the world and want to grow up to become perhaps an astrophysicist. No! Rahul, it seems wants to help people. He feels that it would be 'selfish' not to use his skills and abilities, especially with his love of mathematics.

So, what does this young man want to do to help people? Rahul wants to become a financial adviser.

In an age where we are bombarded with scaremongering stories about financial services (not all unwarranted), how refreshing it is to see a young man like Rahul grasp the very essence of financial planning – helping people.

As Financial Planners, we spend a lot of time understanding our clients, their needs, building relationships, learning about their families and for some, their businesses. We become trusted advisors so that when people want to make important financial choices they call us, without hesitation. Many of my clients actually refer to me as their decision partner when it comes to money, investments and their plans for the future. True financial planners help people, and make their lives better.

Good luck Rahul!
